

SKULL STAKE LIGHTS

I simply HATED those cutesy pumpkin stake lights. They are a bit too cute for my taste and the look I am trying to achieve in my yard. Soooo, I decided on SKULLS. This is VERY easy to do. Here is a brief explanation of how I did it.

I already had a couple of sets of those lights from years before that someone had given me. They only have 7 lights. I bought a whole bunch of these blow-mold skulls from Big Lots for 99 cents each just to have... never can have enough skulls, ya

I used a utility knife to cut the holes in the bottom of the skull. I probably could have used a drill to do this and it would have been MUCH easier, but I didn't have the right bit to do it. The hardest part is making sure the hole isn't too big or it won't stay on the stake.

Next I just attached the skull to the stake the same way the pumpkins go on them.

MUCH better than those pumpkins!
